

Annual Meeting of the New Champions 2017

Achieving Inclusive Growth in the Fourth Industrial Revolution

Dalian, People's Republic of China 27-29 June

Media Guidelines for Accredited Reporting Press, Broadcasters (TV & Radio), and Photographers

Code of Conduct

World Economic Forum meetings are as open and transparent as possible to cultivate a collegial atmosphere among participants and journalists. Please respect that this is a private meeting and abide by the following guidelines.

Members of the reporting press are accredited by the Forum on the understanding that they attend the meeting in a purely editorial capacity and are not there for public relations, marketing or commercial purposes.

Any journalist who does not respect these guidelines, or is found to be aggressive or unreasonably intrusive towards participants, will have their accreditation withdrawn immediately. Furthermore, their entire team's accreditation will be withdrawn for this meeting and for other World Economic Forum events.

Online Registration

- All journalists and media technical staff (camera crew, sound engineers, photographers, etc.) who wish to cover the Annual Meeting of the New Champions must be accredited by the World Economic Forum.
- Media accreditation is now closed, no accreditation will be done on site.
- All accreditation requests are subject to final confirmation by the World Economic Forum.
- Accreditations are not transferable or exchangeable. Should this rule not be followed, you will immediately lose your accreditation.

Accredited Journalists

- Accredited journalists will receive a confirmation email beginning of June 2017.
- Badges may be collected as of Monday 26 June from 14.00 to 18.00; and throughout the day for 27-29 June from 07.30 to 18.00 at the Gang Wan Square East, 200 metres from the Zhong Xin Hai Gang Cheng Sales Office, Zhongshan District, Dalian, People's Republic of China.
- Upon registration, journalists will receive their personal security badge, the final programme and the final list of participants, as well as other relevant information.
- Please bring photo identification with you to pick up your badge.

Logistical Information for Photographers, TV & Radio Broadcasters and Camera Crews

- Only international photo agencies will be granted accreditation as pool photographers for the meeting. No other photographers will be accredited.

- Important: Filming and photographs are not allowed for accredited reporting press. Members of the reporting press who are found taking photos or video of any of the sessions will lose their accreditation for this meeting and other World Economic Forum events.
- Filming and/or recording are allowed only in the sessions taking place in the Briefing Centre/Press Conference Room. Fixed positions for television cameras and photographers will be assigned.
- Pool coverage of the official sessions is provided by the host broadcaster working on behalf of the World Economic Forum.
- While the World Economic Forum provides the pool signals from plenary sessions free of charge, there will be a technical access fee for these services.
- A seating area for reporting press will be reserved towards the back of the room during each plenary session

Important: Note on Wi-Fi

Due to an increased demand for Wi-Fi services and the limitations of current technologies, we kindly ask you not to bring your own personal wireless or Wi-Fi access point into the meeting. These personal devices interfere with the limited channels available and the free public Wi-Fi services offered by the World Economic Forum. Should you have trouble connecting to the Wi-Fi, or accessing the internet during the meeting, there will be an IT technician at the media information desk to assist you.

Host Broadcasters

The official host broadcaster for the Annual Meeting of the New Champions 2017 is Dalian TV.

Eurovision will provide technical support and workspaces for broadcasters. Should you have any special technical requests, please contact Vivian Yang at vivian.yang@weforum.org.
